Biographical Note: Joseph Blotner (1923-2012), born in Scotch Plains, NJ, dedicated much of his life to William Faulkner. Blotner, a WWII veteran, received a PhD in literature at University of Pennsylvania and taught at the University of Idaho, the University of Virginia, the University of North Carolina and the University of Michigan. In 1962, after Faulkner's death, his family requested that Blotner write his biography. In 1974, the two-volume, 2,115-page Faulkner: A Biography. Blotner's work did not stop there. He wrote, edited, and contributed to a dozen books on Faulkner, studied J.D. Salinger, and completed another biography of Robert Penn Warren.

The two met after Blotner had convinced the University of Virginia to bring Faulkner on as a writer-in-residence. Blotner was instantly awed by Faulkner's charisma, and reciprocally, Blotner's WWII stories inspired Faulkner. That inspiration led to the creation of the novel The Mansion. Many believed that Faulkner: A Biography left out the darker sides of Faulkner's life due to the relationship between the author and the subject. Blotner and Faulkner were very close friends, so after the death of Faulkner's wife, Blotner published a much shorter volume of Faulkner's biography, which included the shortcomings. On his deathbed, Faulkner referred to Blotner as his "spiritual son."

Scope and Content Note: Correspondence, newspapers, photographs, interview notes, magazine articles, research materials, book excerpts, journals, manuscripts, and drawings pertaining to Joseph Blotner's research that produced Faulkner: A Biography.
