

Global Cultures & Languages: Anthropology Option

Bachelor of Arts (BA)

Anthropology Option

The anthropology option within the global cultures and languages major trains its students in the holistic study of humanity, both past and present. The program focuses on anthropological method, theory and practice with a focus on the interaction between human culture, biology and environment.

We provide training in all subfields of the discipline: sociocultural anthropology, linguistic anthropology, archaeology and biological anthropology. The academic interests of our students range from prehistoric North American archaeology to forensic anthropology and from linguistics to the anthropology of religion. The curriculum is designed to prepare students for graduate study or entry-level positions in the field.

Anthropology students will...

- Interact with qualified faculty in a small class environment.
- Gain hands-on experience through internships, practica and field work.
- Be prepared for graduate studies and entry-level positions in museum, government, academic and private sector settings.
- Have access to laboratory facilities and study-abroad programs.

Career Planning

Career preparation is part of the mission of Southeast. In fact, more than 90% of Southeast students participate in internships, clinical opportunities, student teaching, research assistantships, and study abroad. Currently, the majority of Global Cultures & Languages graduates find employment within one year of graduation.

Professional career counselors are available for all students. The Office of Career Services in Academic Hall 057 can provide students with professional career counseling, resume critiques, practice interviews, job search strategies, career events, networking opportunities, and more.

Demonstrated Career Proficiency is a Requirement of all Southeast Students
CL001/CL002	First Semester	Complete the FOCUS2 assessment and develop a Career Action Plan.
CL003	Junior Year	Students gain information about career planning and job searching resources.
CL004	Senior Year	Students demonstrate advanced proficiency by identifying a position in their field, developing a cover letter, and tailoring a resume for the position. Materials are critiqued to ensure preparedness for a successful job search.

Students in the Anthropology Program at Southeast go on to apply their skills in a variety of settings. Here are what some of our graduates have to say:

“ Graduate level anthropology is all about theory, methods, and original research. My undergraduate anthropology education at Southeast gave me a fair balance of each of those. Now I'm just a few months away from finishing a master's degree in Mortuary Archaeology and Human Osteology, and I plan to continue on to a Ph.D. program. ”

— Whitney Broughton, University of Mississippi Graduate Student, Southeast Class of 2012

“ My degrees in anthropology and Spanish from Southeast were the perfect preparation for my Peace Corps service in Panama. My cultural anthropology studies provided a great, well-rounded understanding of human culture that has been irreplaceable in my work as a journalist. ”

— Jacob McClelland, Host and Producer at KRCU, Southeast Class of 2000

“ Studying the applications of anthropological method has given me the opportunity to look at the world through a focused and question-generating lens. In social work, this gives me perspective and resourcefulness when addressing my clients' needs. ”

— Rozz Ridings, Legal Advocate and Direct Service Provider, Domestic Abuse Shelter, Southeast Class of 2012
