

Human Environmental Studies: Family Studies Option

Bachelor of Science (BS)

Family Studies Option

The family studies program strongly focuses on integrating theory, research and practice. It encompasses a wide range of family structures, dynamics and functions with an emphasis on the development of interpersonal skills and professional practice. The Family Studies program prepares students for a variety of positions that focus on families or family members at all stages of the life continuum in social service, government and education.

Southeast's family studies program is an accredited Certified Family Life Educator program. The National Council on Family Relations (NCFR) oversees our program, which includes course work that follows the standards and criteria needed for students to become Provisional Certified Family Life Educators. For more information, visit the NCFR website: <http://www.ncfr.org/>.

Family Study students will...

- Gain an in-depth understanding of family structures, dynamics and interactions along with developmental issues across the lifespan.
- Develop skills in assessing, creating and implementing interventions to improve family interactions.
- Be trained to work with a wide variety of populations and have the opportunity to work part-time or volunteer in one of our four state licensed centers that serve children, seniors and developmentally disabled adults.
- Be offered "real world" experiences through placement in agencies and programs serving young children and parents, pregnant teens, senior adults, low-income families, and the community.

Career Planning

Career preparation is part of the mission of Southeast. In fact, more than 90% of Southeast students participate in internships, clinical opportunities, student teaching, research assistantships, and study abroad.

Professional career counselors are available for all students. The Office of Career Services in Academic Hall 057 can provide students with professional career counseling, resume critiques, practice interviews, job search strategies, career events, networking opportunities, and more.

Demonstrated Career Proficiency is a Requirement of all Southeast Students

CL003	Junior Year	Students gain information about career planning and job searching resources.
