

Child & Family Studies: Family Studies

Bachelor of Science (BS)

Family Studies Option

The Family Studies program strongly focuses on integrating theory, research and practice. The discipline encompasses a wide range of family structures, dynamics and functions with an emphasis on the development of interpersonal skills and professional practice. The Family Studies program prepares students for a variety of positions that focus on families or family members at all stages of the life continuum in social service, mental health, government and education

Southeast's Family Studies program is an approved Certified Family Life Educator program. The National Council on Family Relations (NCFR) oversees our program, which includes course work that follows the standards and criteria needed for students to become Provisional Certified Family Life Educators. For more information, visit the NCFR website: <http://www.ncfr.org/>.

Becoming Career Ready...

/ Qualified faculty interact one-on-one with students in face-to-face and online classes.

/ Graduates of the program are prepared to work in a wide variety of settings, including corporate, government, mental health, and social service. Examples of job titles are parent educator, marriage and relationship educator, prevention specialist, advocacy agent, geriatric specialist, program director, victim assistance worker and case manager.

/ Family Studies majors gain an in-depth understanding of family structures, dynamics / interactions, and development across the lifespan.

/ Majors develop skills in assessing, creating and implementing interventions to improve family interactions and teaching educational content related to parenting, romantic relationships, and life skills.

/ 100% of Southeast programs offer real-world experience. Students in the program are trained to work with a wide variety of populations and gain hands on experience in one of our three state licensed centers that serve children, seniors and developmentally disabled adults. In addition, students gain work experience through placement in community agencies and programs serving young children and parents, pregnant teens, senior adults, and low-income families.

/ The path to a successful career starts with you! You can maximize your career development by working closely with Career Services and Southeast faculty – they are here to help you connect your passions, interests and skills to jobs and opportunities in the field. Career Services provides professional career counseling and coaching, resume critiques, practice interviews, job search strategies, career events, networking opportunities and more.
