The exercise science option of health management degree is designed around the knowledge, skills, and competencies of the American College of Sports Medicine, which is the preeminent professional organization for exercise physiologists, sports medicine professionals, and fitness workers. The certifications offered by this organization are the gold standard in the field. The curriculum prepares students to pass the American College of Sports Medicine’s Health Fitness Specialist Certification.

Students are not taught how to exercise, but rather how to apply the physiological and mechanical principles learned in the classroom to clients of varying health status and fitness levels. One way in which this is done is through an array of experiential learning opportunities. When students complete the exercise science program they have had ample opportunities to apply classroom knowledge and skills in the laboratory setting and in the field. Faculty monitor the students' progress along the way.

Becoming Career Ready...

/ BS in Exercise management majors have the opportunity to gain hundreds of hours of real-world experience prior to graduation.

/ Exercise Science graduates work in the fitness, nutrition, wellness and rehabilitation settings, including corporate settings. Examples of job titles are health care instructor, corporate fitness and wellness coordinator, personal trainer, athletic director and rehabilitation specialist.

/ Faculty work closely with students to help them gain a wide variety of exercise testing and exercise programming skills.

/ Exercise Science majors learn to apply basic scientific principles to a diverse clientele.

/ Students in the program learn to address client’s specific needs in the development of an exercise regimen.

/ 100% of Southeast programs offer a real-world experience. Exercise Science students gain this experience through a required internship and practicum. Students complete a 480 clock-hour internship at the completion of the degree program. The internship provides not only an invaluable work experience but also often leads to employment.

/ The path to a successful career starts with you! You can maximize your career development by working closely with Career Services and Southeast faculty – they are here to help you connect your passions, interests, and skills to jobs and opportunities in the field. Career Services provides professional career counseling and coaching, resume critiques, practice interviews, job search strategies, career events, networking opportunities and more.
