Department of Nursing Promotion and Tenure Criteria and Procedure

Promotion

Introduction:

The Department of Nursing believes that the integrated roles of teaching effectiveness, professional growth, and service are essential for faculty performance. Evidence of these three categories should be included throughout the promotion document.

I. Concept of Promotion

The structured process of promotion within the Department of Nursing is based on the following concepts:

- A. The promotion process is designed to be an objective mechanism for the purpose of recognizing an individual faculty member's achievement and dedication both as a professional in the field and as a member of this academic community.
- B. The promotion process incorporates necessary guidelines and procedures as to identify creditable contributions at all levels.
- C. The recommendation for promotion is based upon sustained patterns while at current rank. Sustained is defined as "four productive years while in current rank." The university has defined sustained performance as "over time in rank." However, there should be stronger emphasis on sustained performance during the last four years in rank. It is understood that the candidate's performance does not require entries in each category be made every year to be considered sustained.
- D. The promotion guidelines are flexible enough to allow for individual differences.
- E. The promotion policy of the Department of Nursing supplements and in no way supersedes the policies set forth by the University.
- F. The promotion committee operates under the guidelines of the University promotion document.

II. Minimum Standards for Promotion to the Various Ranks (Also see Faculty Handbook for Promotion Policy.)

A. PROFESSOR

1. Ratings - one rating of outstanding and two of superior
2. Required education - earned Doctorate in Nursing or a related field

B. ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR

1. Ratings - two ratings of superior (one must be in teaching) and one of good
2. Required education - earned Doctorate in Nursing or a related field

C. ASSISTANT PROFESSOR

1. Rating - three ratings of good
2. Required education - earned Doctorate in Nursing or a related field

III. Criteria

A. EVIDENCE OF TEACHING EFFECTIVENESS

1. Evaluative Support

a. Colleague evaluations: Evidence of peer evaluation must be provided. The candidate shall present no more than three evaluation reports by colleagues of equal or higher rank (may include faculty, Department Chair, or Dean). The evaluations must indicate direct knowledge of the candidate's performance in the classroom, lab, or in curriculum development.

b. Student evaluations of instruction (a summary of the results of neutrally administered student evaluations of instruction conducted during the relevant time period.): By University policy, candidates may not be compelled to report the results of student evaluations; however, it is the candidate's responsibility to present a case for teaching effectiveness.

If applicants for promotion and tenure decide to report the results of student evaluations, they should use a common evaluation instrument approved by the Department once a year for each class taught. In addition, the candidate should present evaluative data from a nationally normed evaluation instrument in a time frame that is consistent with University policy. Evaluative data should be presented in tabular format. Narrative student comments as well as unsolicited student feedback may also be included as evaluative data.

c. Evaluation of presentations outside the classroom setting

d. Other*

2. Curricular Innovations/Improvements

a. New courses developed or taught; include syllabi where appropriate.

b. Major revision of established courses; include syllabi where appropriate.

c. Participation in program or curriculum development and evaluation

d. Creative teaching/learning activities in the classroom or clinical setting.

e. Development of alternative method(s) of instruction (for example, web-based courses, web-assisted courses, ITV courses, gaming simulation, role play, case studies, lab exercises, etc.)

f. Collaboration with agencies to initiate clinical practice sites

g. Other* (Examples: Teaching awards or recognition, funding for innovative teaching/learning methods, etc.)

3. Continuous Teaching Improvement

a. Identification of course weaknesses and specific actions taken to remedy those weaknesses

b. Efforts to improve individual teaching through participation in seminars or conferences

Provide:

- location with the most recent listed first
- date
- title
- presenter
- sponsoring organization
- categories of international, national, state, regional, and local explanation of how each relates to improving teaching effectiveness

- c. Revisions of established curricula and courses; include syllabi where appropriate.
- d. Maintenance of clinical practice sites through effective collaboration with agencies
- e. Maintenance of alternative teaching methods (Examples: Web courses, case studies, etc.)
- f. Other* (Examples: Internal/external funds to improve teaching, etc.)

4. Self Assessment of Teaching Effectiveness

**The category, "other" appears throughout the document and allows the candidate to supply any further evidence that would strengthen or clarify the candidate's activities within a particular area.*

PERFORMANCE LEVELS FOR TEACHING EFFECTIVENESS

Outstanding: A sustained record of effective teaching (substantial documentation of teaching effectiveness) and evidence of involvement in activities in all four categories with a minimum of six activities across categories two and three.

Superior: A sustained record of effective teaching and evidence of involvement in activities in all four categories with a minimum of four activities across categories two and three.

Good: A sustained record of effective teaching and evidence of involvement in all four categories with a minimum of two activities across categories two and three.

Unacceptable: Insufficient evidence of effective teaching.
